Oddfellows Hold Annual Session

This week the Alberta Grand Lodge of Oddfellows and auxiliaries met in annual session at Lethbridge, being attended by upwards of 450 representatives of Robekah, Encampment and Subordinate Lodge branches throughout the Province.

The session of the Robekah Assembly opened on Monday at 9:00 a.m., presided over by Sister M. E. Molloy, president.

The Encampment sessions opened on Tuesday morning, presided over by Sergt. Major M. A. Brimacombe, Grand Patriarch.

The first session of the Grand Lodge of Alberta was held on Wednesday morning, when Grand Master A. E. Cummings, of Edmonton, called the Grand Lodge to order for its eleventh annual session. This session was attended by over 330 delegates and past grand masters and representatives of the sister jurisdictions of Saskatchewan and British Columbia. At the opening session 120 new members were admitted into membership, meaning that practically forty per cent. of those in attendance at this year's session were new and young in the work of the Order.

Many questions of importance came up for consideration before this grand assembly, probably the most important being a provision for the dependents and children of members who may become disabled or disabled in the present European war. The measure is to be adopted by any fraternal or beneficial organization throughout the Dominion, and we look forward to much satisfaction deriving from its enforcement. In the new legislation it is clearly stipulated that only such soldiers as are in good financial standing with their lodges shall be entitled to benefits therefrom. According to the constitution of the Order it is not lawful for the general funds of the Order to be appropriated for such an emergency, therefore it is necessary that some new legislation be adopted in order to meet conditions which will in future confront this great organization. In order to create a fund for such purpose, a committee representative of every corner of the Alberta jurisdiction has been appointed, and voluntary subscriptions of about $1.00 per member is asked as a foundation for said fund. Whenever additional funds are deemed necessary, further appeals will be made to the members.

No time was lost on Monday by the Rebekahs in getting down to the business of the sixth annual session of the Rebekah Assembly of Alberta. During the afternoon the elective and appointive officers for the ensuing year were named with the following results:

Junior Past President—Mary Molloy, Nanton.
President—May McDougall, Pincher Creek.
Vice-President—Minnie McIntyre, Edmonton.
Warden—Margaret Rose, Medicine Hat.

APPOINTIVE OFFICERS.
Marshal—Mrs. R. B. Morden, Lethbridge.
Conductor—Mrs. McKenzie, Edmonton.

Chaplain—Mrs. Cochrane, Clearwater.

The election of officers of the Grand Encampment resulted as follows:
Junior Past Grand Patriarch—Sergt.

Blairmore, Alta., Fri., Feb. 13, 1916

When anyone can invent really operative legislation whereby liquor can still be made but not drunk, as is proposed by the "prohibition" advocates, I will climb onto the water wagon and press the movement my support. As a matter of fact it cannot be done. There is only one way whereby the prohibition aimed at can be accomplished, and that is by the land and a complete shutting off of the importation of liquor. And even then, when a still can be had for a few dollars, or made on the premises, and the necessary ingredients for alcohol are furnished by the kitchen refuse, the way does not look altogether clear. When the French Government came to the conclusion that absinthe was an undesirable commodity, did they pass laws to prevent its distribution and still allow its manufacture? No, they began at the fountain head and debarré its manufacture.

When the Russian Government undertook to make the Russian peasant sober they did the simplest and most effective thing possible—the manufacture of vodka was forbidden. It seems clear that the most intolerant man after all is the reformer. He would reform you out of your Sunday golf, because he prefers to go to church. The editor of the "Whitby Gazette," and a whole lot of other fellows of the same stripe of extremist, would reform you out of laying a bet at a horse race or doing this or that, which, perchance, might please me, but displease him. What a man chiefly desires in this world is to be let alone. The average Anglo-Saxon reverts, and, rightly enough, enactments and laws against personal liberty. If we had enough men with the mentality of the gentleman quoted above we would be in a better Germany today. We would be living by rule of thumb. Now we object to the Prussian rule of thumb. We may not be so effective, we may not be a vast human machine; we may be a crowd of our time and our money. But we don't have to think or write this or that just because a Kaiser says we must. And after our time and our money and our eternal souls are in our own keeping, and not, please God, in the hands of the editor of the "Whitby Gazette" or the German Kaiser.—Winnipeg Saturday Night.

with all the branches of the Society and the organizations working for it throughout the Province, advising them of February 23rd as a Red Cross Day and asking them to adopt some special means of bringing the claims of the Red Cross Society before their communities and the rural communities within their reach. It is expected that this will be done and it is hoped that, with loyal and concerted efforts by all parts of the Province, Leap Year Day will, indeed, be a Red Cross Day for the Red Cross Society in Alberta.

Red Cross An International Arbitrator

The Red Cross in this war has been the great safeguard of the rights of all non-belligerents.

It does not pose as a neutral—a term open to the suspicion of a hypocritical partiality for one side or the other. It is not pacifist in the ordinary sense of the word. Its aims are entirely non-political. It does not attempt to influence the military policies of any government. It merely upholds the rights of non-belligerents, whether civilians, or wounded and prisoner soldiers.

From this point of view the Red Cross is a great non-belligerent international power, whose strength is the strength of an admitted international morality—the universal human obligation to relieve misery. The vigor with which all the warring powers have denied any intention to transgress the provisions of the Geneva Convention of the International Magna Charter—which guarantees the liberties of the Red Cross—is proof of a general admission of Red Cross rights.

Any nation cynical enough to disavow the Convention of Geneva, would incur universal odium. That treaty is the most sacred and inviolable of all international treaties.

It is this evidence that Red Cross work is the only form of pacifism which can be reconciled with patriotism. It is not cold neutrality. It is an active, vigorous, international principle that war should not contain needless suffering, and that the wounded soldier becomes a non-belligerent who has international rights.

An impartial history of the war will establish the fact that the International Red Cross Society has been an international arbitrator and a solvent of national discord far more effective than neutral pacifists.

A proof of this is to be found in the agreements that have been entered into by the various belligerents, as to the treatment of prisoners of war. This has been a matter of great difficulty. Committee of treatment of prisoners of war in Germany caused demands for a policy of reprisal in England, France and Russia.

Had there not been such an arbitrator as the Red Cross, a series of competitive atrocities might have been the terrible result. On the contrary millions of prisoners of war owe a progressive amelioration of their condition to their advocate, the International Red Cross Society, whose protests have met with a more favorable reception than the protests of any neutral power.

Illustrative of this are the recent regulations mutually agreed upon by the Russians and German governments. The Danish Red Cross as a means of ascertaining the exact needs of prisoners of war, proposed the sending of Danish commissions to prison camps in Germany and Russia, accompanied by members of the German Red Cross in the case of Russia, and the Russians in the case of Germany.

The International Red Cross broached the question at Petrograd and Berlin, with the National Red Cross societies of intermediaries, and the ensuing negotiations resulted in a complete entente between the two governments. The regulations agreed on were as follows:

The Danish Red Cross is to send three delegates into each of the two countries to visit the concentration of prisoners of war camps. Each delegate is to travel separately and to be accompanied by a Red Cross nurse from the country in whose interest the visit is made.

These Delegates are to have the right to converse with the prisoners, without witnesses, in their native tongue, concerning their personal affairs. The Red Cross nurses who accompany the delegates have the right to distribute without let or hindrance, money and charitable gifts.

Every means of transport is to be put at the disposal of the delegates by the country in which the visit takes place. They have the right to take what photographs they please of the prisoners and their camps, as well as to make suggestions to the commanders, who are in addition under orders to assist these Red Cross commissions by every means in their power.

In this and in other ways the Red Cross has established the right of prisoners of war to humane treatment. It has not only secured the recognition of the Geneva convention, it has gained fresh privileges.

It is easy enough to win recognition of humane principles in time of peace. The Red Cross has succeeded in asserting its creed even amid the bitterness of war. It has removed nearly every obstacle which separates a prisoner of war from the charity and sympathy of his compatriots.

It only remains for the civilian public to take advantage of this Red Cross open road, and to support by their contributions, the organization which has won such diplomatic triumphs for humanity.

If you wish to relieve the sick, wounded and prisoners, the Red Cross line of communication runs straight and true as a Roman road, to every hospital and prison camp in every belligerent country.

Frank Happenings

Under the auspices of the patriotic committee a lecture will be delivered in the Methodist church on Saturday evening, February 20th, on "The First Year of The War," by Professor A. E. Otwell, B.A. of Alberta University, Edmonton. The lecturer is bringing with him about one hundred slides of scenes taken at the front during that year, which will be shown throughout the lecture. This will be a well spent evening for all who can attend.

Frank's population increased considerably during the past week, as may be seen by the following: A son to Mr. and Mrs. T. Davis, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hamilton, and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Royer. Mr. Royer is with the 60th—not the 60th son, but the 60th battalion.

The Frank patriotic committee sent $500 to the secretary at Calgary, and the following letter was received in reply:

"To Rev. W. T. Young,
Secretary Committee Patriotic Fund,
Dear Sir:

Kindly accept the thanks of our committee for your favor of the 10th inst., enclosing cheque for the amount of $500, being subscriptions to The Fund from your branch. I note with interest the information in the latter part of your letter to the effect that almost everyone in Frank is giving a percentage of his or her wages to The Fund. This is certainly splendid, and could be followed up with advantage to The Fund by people in other parts of the province.

Yours truly,
THOMAS ALLAN.

Mrs. D. S. Howe returned from Flagstaff, B.C., the early part of the week, where she had been visiting her daughter.

We understand that R. E. Donkin, C.P.R. yardmaster, has enlisted as a lieutenant.

David Muir went to Coalhurst on Friday last to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, who died shortly after receiving injuries on the Coalhurst railway siding. We extend our sincerest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Muir.

The local branch of the Red Cross Society has not been idle, as will be seen from the following report.

RECEIPTS—
From the citizens of Frank, collected by the Patriotic Committee, $80.00, from membership fee $50.00, from tea $21.55, from badges sold $9.30—total $169.85.

EXPENDITURES—
Supplies $58, cheque to provincial headquarters $50, balance on hand $34.85.

Shipment to Calgary this week included 246 rolled bandages, 31 dozen T bandages, 14 dozen surgical shirts, 41 dozen triangular bandages, 21 dozen multi-tailed bandages, 2 dozen ice-bags, 1 dozen bed-bags, 4 pairs wristlets, 21 dozen handkerchiefs, 1 dozen wash-bags, 14 dozen pairs socks, 31 dozen bed-pads, and others to follow.

G. A. Lavoie has resigned his position with the Franco-Canadian Collieries Co. to accept the position of purchasing agent with the West Canadian Collieries Co. at Calgary.

Mark Spratt, who held the position of time keeper with the local coal company, has resigned for the purpose of enlisting with the 192nd Battalion.

Mrs. E. C. MacDonald has been confined to her home with a cold.

Miss Bowen, of Macleod, is visiting her sister here for a few days.

Mrs. Simpson has arrived from Nanaimo, B.C., to join her husband.

The Red Cross dance held in the Workers' Hall on Wednesday night was well attended.

W. Chappell, of the local mine office, has been transferred to the head office at Blairmore temporarily.

Robert Mitchell, who has been a resident of Bellevue for some years, passed away on Sunday, after a long illness. Death came rather unexpected. Deceased leaves a wife and one daughter, Miss Nora, and one son Ernest, both of Bellevue. Interment took place at the Hillcrest cemetery on Tuesday and was largely attended. Friends in Bellevue and district wish to extend through the columns of this paper their sincerest sympathy to the bereaved.

A Misunderstanding

Newspapers are constantly giving the Department, and applications are being received here to have all parcels addressed to our soldiers in France sent free or at reduced rates of postage, there evidently being the impression that the Post Office Department of Canada has control of this, and can do as it wishes.

This is not correct, inasmuch as the transference of parcels depends on a special convention, under the terms of which all parcels are transmitted, and under the terms of which only parcels belonging to regular troops in England and France. As Canada is only one party to this agreement, it is not possible for her to take independent action and lower the rates. If Canada did this, the parcels would simply not be received, or, if delivered in England, would not be transmitted to France nor distributed in England.

Application has already been made by the Canadian Post Office Department for a reduction of the rates of postage on parcels posted in Canada and destined for France, and this has been refused by England and France on the ground that the amount of parcels and mail matter presented at the present time is such as to strain almost to the breaking point the transport service, and the War Office has stated publicly that it cannot and will not transport more parcels than it has been doing.

This statement was made in the British House of Commons, and the reasons above were given as to why they would not make a reduction in regard to parcels being sent from England. What France and England could not do for their own people, they could not do for Canada, and moreover they have refused the applications of the Department to have this done.

The number of parcels is so many and the strain on the transport system is so great at the present time that the British Government has notified the Post Office Department of Canada that temporarily all parcels are reduced to seven pounds, that is, no parcel weighing more than seven pounds will be carried for the present.

The British War Office has notified the Post Office Department of Canada that it is necessary to limit the amount of parcel traffic for the troops during the Christmas and New Year's Season, in the interest of military efficiency. The War Office points out that the great bulk of mail matter dealt with in normal times is already a severe tax on the transport service; that the amount which the roads will carry without breaking up is limited; that ammunition, food and stores for the army must necessarily have preference over the mails; that any increase in the volume of mail traffic must cause delay in the forwarding of these necessary equipments for war.

The public are, therefore, appealed to in their own interest, as well as in the interest of military efficiency, to limit the use of parcel post to articles of real utility.

Fruit, perishable articles of all descriptions, bottles and earthenware jars and like articles are prohibited, and will not be accepted for transmission; and, until further notice, no parcel exceeding seven pounds can or will be accepted for transmission to the forces in France or Flanders.

All parcels must be strongly and securely packed in covers or canvas, linen, or other strong material. Parcels which do not comply with these requirements are unlikely to reach their destination safely, and if observed in course post will be returned to the sender. The name and address of the sender must be written on the outside and parcels which do not comply with this condition will be refused.

"Do you want the situation to be such that all the President can do is to write messages and utter words of protest?" asked President Wilson of his fellow-countrymen, when delivering a speech on "Preparedness." President Wilson has at last begun to realize that the typewriter is not mightier than the machine-gun.

With a population of 1,100,000 white people, South Africa has not only waged one campaign against Germany, despatched a force to German East Africa, and sent as well large numbers of volunteers to Britain on the Empires service, but is also paying for her share of the war. Already they have spent over $100,000,000 for war purposes.

The Canadian Red Cross has received over $1,000,000 in cash, and supplies to the value of nearly $300,000. $180,000 has been spent on ambulances and $125,000 has been given to the British Society. Sixty-six Red Cross nurses and fifty male attendants have been sent through the St. John Ambulance Society. The number of branches has increased in one year from 157 to 320. The total shipments amount to over 30,000 boxes and the average weekly shipment from Toronto alone at present is four carloads. There are advance supply depots as near the front as possible to supply the Canadian Field ambulances. It has been stated by Col. Hodgetts, the Commissioner in England, that not one Red Cross case has been lost in transshipment to France.

The following resolutions were passed by the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform League at its Convention on February 1, 2 and 3, 1916.

1. Inasmuch as an appeal is being made to the Dominion Parliament looking toward the total prohibition throughout the Dominion of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drink while the war lasts, therefore BE IT RESOLVED that this Convention of the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform League expresses its hearty endorsement of that appeal, and that it assures the temperance forces in the other parts of the nation that it will give its best support and service in securing this nation-wide result, if the opportunity shall be secured, to bring the matter to a vote.

RESOLVED that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Dominion Government, to the Dominion Alliance and to each of the members of the Dominion Parliament from the Province of Alberta.

2. RESOLVED that this Convention appreciates the action of the Premier of Alberta as to the promise given by him to introduce an early date a bill providing for the extension of the franchise to the women of the Province and would respectfully request that a library or some other efficient test for both male and female voters be incorporated in the proposed bill affecting the Election Act.

3. That this Committee recommend to the Convention now in Session, that approval be given to the movement made in many parts of the Dominion and voiced in the House of Commons by J. J. Hughes, M. P. for Kings P.E.I., asking for amendment to the British North America Act, giving the Provinces power to prohibit the importation and manufacture of liquors in any province that may so legislate, and thus looking towards total prohibition for the whole Dominion.

4. FURTHER that copies of this resolution be sent to all members of the Federal Parliament from Alberta.
